

WALES JOURNAL OF EDUCATION

22.1

Special Edition: Teacher Education in Wales – a reform journey

Editors

Professor David Egan (Cardiff Metropolitan University)
Dr Russell Grigg (Ministry of Education, United Arab Emirates)

Guest Editor

Professor John Furlong (University of Oxford)

Editorial Board

Professor Gary Beauchamp (Cardiff Metropolitan University)
Professor David Egan (Cardiff Metropolitan University)
Professor John Furlong (University of Oxford)
Dr John Graystone (Colegau Cymru)
Dr Russell Grigg (Ministry of Education, United Arab Emirates)
Professor Mark Hadfield
Professor Alma Harris (Swansea University)
Emeritus Professor David Hopkins (UCL Institute of Education)
Dr Chris Howard
Dr Cath Jones (University of South Wales)
Professor Dylan Jones (University of Wales Trinity Saint David)
Dr Michelle Jones (Swansea University)
Ann Keane (Formerly Her Majesty's Chief Inspector of Education and Training, Estyn)
Dr Chris Llewelyn (Director of Education and Lifelong Learning, Welsh Local Government Association)
Professor David Reynolds
Professor Claire Taylor (Wrexham Glyndŵr University)
Professor Iram Siraj (University of Oxford)
Professor Malcolm Thomas (Aberystwyth University)
Dr Richard Thurston (Welsh Government)
Dr Jean Ware (Bangor University)
Professor Dylan Wiliam (UCL Institute of Education)

The Wales Journal of Education is a platinum Open Access journal
<https://doi.org/10.16922/wje.22.1>

Contents

Contributors	v
Editorial	1
The History of Initial Teacher Education in Wales: Lessons from the Past? DR RUSSELL GRIGG AND PROFESSOR DAVID EGAN	7
Re-forming Initial Teacher Education in Wales: A Personal Review of the Literature PROFESSOR JOHN FURLONG	37
Accountability and Initial Teacher Education Reform: A Perspective from Abroad PROFESSOR MARILYN COCHRAN-SMITH	59
Doing Things Differently: Responding to the ‘policy problem’ of Teacher Education in Wales TREVOR MUTTON AND DR KATHARINE BURN	82
Teach Beyond Boundaries: The Conceptual Framework and Learning Philosophy of an Innovative Initial Teacher Education Programme in Wales PROFESSOR MALCOLM THOMAS, BARRY REES, GARETH EMYR EVANS, NICOLA THOMAS, CLIVE WILLIAMS, BERIAN LEWIS, DARYL PHILLIPS, ALLYSON HAND, SIÂN BOWEN, DR ANDREW DAVIES, PRYSOR MASON DAVIES, DR SUSAN CHAPMAN, MIKE REED AND MANON LEWIS	110
Designing an Integrated Programme of Initial Teacher Education: Progress, Considerations and Reflections PROFESSOR ALMA HARRIS, DR MICHELLE JONES, DR HELEN LEWIS, DR NEIL LUCAS AND JOANNA THOMAS	137

Changing the Lens: Mapping the Development of Research Dispositions in Programmes of Initial Teacher Education (ITE) DR JANE WATERS AND ELAINE SHARPLING	159
Perceptions of the New Role of the Research Champion in Developing a New ITE Partnership: Challenges and Opportunities for Schools and Universities DR CERI PUGH, EMMA THAYER, TOM BREEZE, PROFESSOR GARY BEAUCHAMP, DR JUDITH KNEEN, SHARNE WATKINS AND BETHAN ROWLANDS	178
Growing Tomorrow's Teachers Together: The CaBan Initial Teacher Education Partnership JEREMY GRIFFITHS, DR SALLY BAMBER, GRAHAM FRENCH, DR BETHAN HULSE, GWYN JONES, RHYS C. JONES, DR SUSAN JONES, GWAWR MAELOR WILLIAMS, HAZEL WORDSWORTH AND PROFESSOR J. CARL HUGHES	201
Developing Professional Identity and Ethos through Research and Practice in Initial Teacher Education: The USW ITE Partnership Approach DR CAROLINE DALY, JAMIE JAMES, CATHERINE JONES, LISA TAYLOR, KELLY WEGENER AND CRAIG GEORGE	224
ITE Reform at the University of Glasgow: Principles, Research-basis and Implications DR BETH DICKSON	247
Epilogue: A View from the Schools PROFESSOR JOHN FURLONG, PROFESSOR EITHNE HUGHES, RHONWEN MORRIS AND JON MURPHY	271
Notes for contributors	293

Contributors

Dr Sally Bamber is a key member of the University of Chester teacher education team. She has worked extensively with close to practice research in schools in North Wales.

Gary Beauchamp is Professor of Education and Associate Dean Research at Cardiff Metropolitan University. His research focuses on the use of interactive technologies in teaching and learning, but he has also published widely on initial teacher training in the UK and music education.

Siân Bowen is currently an education Challenge Adviser for Ceredigion, working with secondary and 3–19 schools. Her previous role as Deputy Head teacher included working with HEIs to support trainee teachers.

Tom Breeze is Programme Leader for PGCE Secondary Music at Cardiff Metropolitan University. A former secondary school music teacher, he also performs professionally. Research interests include cross-curricular pedagogies in the expressive arts, and the pedagogic beliefs of Key Stage 3 music teachers as they implement the new curriculum in Wales.

Dr Katharine Burn is Associate Professor of Education at the University of Oxford Department of Education, where she teaches and supervises on a range of programmes, particularly focusing on history education. She is co-ordinator of the Oxford Education Deanery, the Department's knowledge exchange partnership with local schools, and her research focuses on teachers' initial and continued professional learning.

Dr Susan Chapman is a lecturer in the School of Education at Aberystwyth University and a Link Tutor in the Aberystwyth Partnership ITE programme. Her research interests include literacy and education in rural schools.

Marilyn Cochran-Smith holds the Cawthorne Chair in Teacher Education for Urban Schools at the Lynch School of Education, Boston College. Her research has focused on teacher education policy and practice nationally and internationally particularly in relation to social justice. She is a past President of the American Educational Research Association.

Dr Caroline Daly is Reader in Education at UCL Institute of Education, Honorary Visiting Professor at Cardiff University and Associate Professor of Education at the University of South Wales. Her research interests include collaborative practice in Initial Teacher Education and teachers' professional learning.

Dr Andrew Davies is Senior Lecturer and Assistant Director of the School of Education at Aberystwyth University. His research interests focus on professional learning, teacher recruitment and retention, and the sociology of education and childhood.

Prysor Mason Davies is Senior Lecturer and Assistant Director at the School of Education at Aberystwyth University. He is currently commencing on research into Children's Rights in Wales.

Dr Beth Dickson is a senior lecturer in the School of Education at the University of Glasgow. In her roles as associate dean of initial teacher education (ITE), deputy head of school and director of learning and teaching, she has led the teams that have reformed teacher education.

David Egan is Emeritus Professor of Education, Cardiff School of Education and Social Policy, Cardiff Metropolitan University. He is a former Chair of UCET Cymru and the Board of the Graduate Teacher Training Registry.

Gareth Emyr Evans is currently Deputy Headteacher at Ysgol Bro Teifi 3–19 school in Llandysul, West Wales. He currently sits on the Aberystwyth ITE Partnership Operational and Management Board.

Graham French is the Lead for postgraduate studies in the School of education and human development at Bangor University. His current research projects include the development and evaluation of a pedagogical model for adventurous activities, the effect of poverty on learning in urban schools, the use of digital technology to enhance outdoor learning, and the development of adventure sports pedagogy and andragogy.

John Furlong is an Emeritus Professor of Education at the University of Oxford. An adviser to the Welsh Government on initial teacher education, he chaired the group that drew up the new Accreditation Criteria for Wales and was the first chair of the Teacher Education Accreditation Board.

Craig George is Headteacher of Rhiw Syr Dafydd Primary School (Oakdale) with over twenty years of teaching experience in the primary sector. He is committed to professional learning for all stakeholders, and is a lead partner school within USW ITE Partnership. His current research focuses on leadership styles within different organisations.

Jeremy Griffiths is Executive Director of CaBan. He is currently seconded from his role as head teacher of a large primary school to the role of strategic lead for the CaBan partnership. He has thirty-five years of experience working across numerous education sectors and is currently an Associate of the National Academy for Education Leadership.

Dr Russell Grigg is an Education Inspector at the Ministry of Education in the United Arab Emirates. He was formerly Associate Professor at the Wales Centre for Equity.

Allyson Hand is a Senior Leader at Crickhowell High School with responsibility for Student Achievement and ITE. She is passionate about her subject (Mathematics) and has over 25 years of teaching experience.

Alma Harris is Professor of Education and Deputy Head of the Swansea University School of Education. She is internationally known for her work on education policy, leadership and system improvement.

Eithne Hughes is Director of the Association of School and College Leaders (ASCL) Cymru. She is an Honorary Professor of Education at Bangor University and a past head teacher of Ysgol Bryn Eliau. In 2004 and was awarded an OBE for services to Secondary Education in Wales.

J. Carl Hughes is Professor of Education Research and Head of School at the School of Education and Human Development, Bangor University. Professor Hughes is Founding Director of the Collaborative Institute for Education Research, Evidence and Impact (CIEREI), a collaborative, bilingual, multi-disciplinary institute for the creation of context-led impact research in schools aimed at positively impacting educational practice, professional learning, educational outcomes, and learning and wellbeing for children in our schools. His research interests include evidence-based educational interventions, close-to-practice impact research, reading instruction, and developing evidence informed educational systems.

Dr Bethan Hulse is the CaBan Development Lead for the University of Chester. Prior to becoming a teacher educator, she taught languages in secondary schools across North Wales. She has published research on the development of teachers as researchers and on creative pedagogies in Modern Foreign Languages (MFL).

Jamie James is Head of the School of Education, Early Years and Social Work at the University of South Wales. His research interests include studying the creation of professional learning opportunities in the workplace and professional identity in Initial Teacher Education.

Catherine Jones is currently the Head of Research Development and Pedagogic Practice in the School of Education, Early Years and Social Work and Education Cognate Research Group Lead at the University of South Wales. Her research interests include developing professional practice, collaboration and collaborative learning and blended learning.

Gwyn Jones has a range of education experiences in England and Wales and has taught at Bangor University for 9 years. He was a core member of the Msters in Education Practice (MEP) team and has led the curriculum design for the new CaBaN courses. His research interests include teacher inquiry and mathematics education.

Dr Michelle Jones is Head of Swansea University School of Education and Associate Professor of Leadership and Professional Learning. She has previously held academic positions at the University of Bath and the University of Malaya. She has worked with government agencies in England, Russia, Singapore, Australia, and Malaysia assisting with the design and delivery of their leadership and professional learning programmes.

Rhys C. Jones is PGCE Secondary Course Director and CaBan Mentor Lead. His research interests and activities are in Physical Education pedagogy (models-based practice), curriculum/teacher/leadership development through mentoring and coaching interventions. He is researching towards his doctorate within the field of professional learning and schools as learning organisations.

Dr Susan Jones is an expert in Teacher Education, with specific expertise in science education.

Dr Judith Kneen is Programme Leader for PGCE English at Cardiff Metropolitan University having specialised in initial teacher education for the last 12 years. This follows a career as an English teacher, head of department, and advisory teacher. Her research interests include technology within English teaching, teaching literature and cross-curricular work.

Berian Lewis is currently the Deputy Headteacher of Plascrug School in Aberystwyth. He has experience of working in a range of contrasting schools in South Wales and overseas. In his early career he worked in a childcare team in Social Services in addition to advising third sector

Dr Helen Lewis is an experienced primary school teacher, education consultant and teacher educator. Her research interests focus on the development of young children's thinking and metacognition, teacher enquiry and reflective practice, and she has written widely in these areas. She is the Acting Head of Initial Teacher Education in the Swansea University School of Education.

Manon Lewis is a PGCE link Tutor with responsibility for History and Geography at the School Of Education at Aberystwyth University. She has previously worked as a Head of a Humanities Faculty at a secondary school. She has been an examiner for WJEC and has published teaching materials for developing thinking skills.

Dr Neil Lucas is the Director of School Partnerships at Swansea University School of Education with specific responsibility for overseeing the operations of the Swansea University Schools Partnership (SUSP). He has undertaken a number of education leadership roles in the private and public sector and was recently the College Director and Principal of a University-embedded International College. Neil also works as a reviewer on behalf of the UK Quality Assurance Agency for Higher Education.

Rhonwen Morris is a teacher of Art and Design since 2001, who has taken on a number of lead roles including Head of Department, Senior Leader and the role of Assistant Head Teacher since 2016. She is co-chair of the Strategic Leadership Group and member of the Executive Board at Yr Athrofa: Institute of Education, University of Wales Trinity St David (UWTSD).

Jon Murphy is recently retired from the post of Executive Headteacher of a federation of primary schools. He has taken up a new role as the NACE Research & Development Hub Co-ordinator for Wales. As a Visiting Fellow at South Wales University and a member of the Strategic Board at Cardiff Metropolitan University, he has worked extensively with both institutions on the Initial Teacher Education reform agenda.

Trevor Mutton is Director of Professional Programmes at the University of Oxford Department of Education, where he teaches on a range of programmes. His research interests focus primarily on teacher education policy and practice, in particular the nature of beginning teachers' learning and teacher education partnerships.

Daryl Phillips is Assistant Headteacher and Lead Mentor for the partnership at Welshpool High School. He is the Physics tutor on the PGCE programme and has researched the impact of Initial Teacher Education on schools.

Dr Ceri Pugh is Programme Leader for the PGCE Secondary Science pathways at Cardiff Metropolitan University. He has worked in ITE for the last nine years following a career as a chemistry and science teacher and head of department. Research interests include science pedagogy, collaborative group work and cross-curricular working.

Mike Reed is the Deputy Headteacher at Ysgol Uwchradd Aberteifi. He has worked in a number of Mathematics Departments for schools in the South and West Wales area over the last 25 years.

Barry Rees has held many senior roles in Ceredigion County Council including Director of Education and is now a Corporate Director overseeing schools, lifelong learning and culture, finance, democratic services, people and organisation, and legal services. He is the co-chair of the AberTeach+ ITE Partnership Strategic and Accountability Board.

Bethan Rowlands is a Lecturer on the BA (Hons) Primary Education with QTS, PGCE Primary and PGCE Secondary in Cardiff School of Education and Social Policy, Cardiff Metropolitan University. Following a twenty-year career as a Welsh primary school teacher, she is currently working in higher education and research.

Elaine Sharpling is the Director of Initial Teacher Education in the Athrofa, UWTSO and has led the development of a new suite of ITE programmes through the accreditation process. Following a career change from nursing, she trained as a primary teacher before moving into the Higher Education sector. She leads undergraduate and postgraduate programmes of Initial Teacher Education and has a research interest in language development, linguistics and measuring quality in ITE programmes.

Lisa Taylor is Director of Initial Teacher Education at University of South Wales. She has researched collaborative approaches to professional learning, school improvement and school-to-school support and presented on these themes nationally. Lisa's current research is in the development and implementation of change in the Welsh education system.

Emma Thayer is Programme Leader for PGCE Secondary Drama at Cardiff Metropolitan University. She is currently studying for her PhD, which examines the shared practice of theatre directors and drama teachers. Her other research interests include drama and cross-curricular pedagogy, and the role of research in ITE.

Joanna Thomas is a qualified teacher who taught Modern Foreign Languages in Secondary schools before moving into Higher Education in 1999. She has delivered Initial Teacher Education (ITE) programmes at Liverpool John Moores University, Warwick University and, more recently, she was the Head of ITE at Swansea University School of Education. Joanna is a Senior Fellow of the Higher Education Academy and the external examiner for the Secondary PGCE at Liverpool Hope University.

Malcolm Thomas is Professor and Director of the School of Education at Aberystwyth University and is currently the Chair of USCET Cymru. His research interests include health promoting schools, health literacy and wellbeing, and nutritional education.

Nicola Thomas was deputy headteacher at Crickhowell High School. Since participating in this work, she has been appointed as HMI with Estyn.

Dr Jane Waters is an Associate Professor in the Athrofa, UWTSO, and leads the development of Applied Education Research within the University. She began her career in the primary classroom as a teacher before leading undergraduate and postgraduate programmes in Early Childhood Studies and Initial Teacher Education in the Higher Education sector. Her research expertise lies in early childhood education, outdoor play and learning and professional learning in education.

Sharne Watkins is Deputy Head of Initial Teacher Education at Cardiff Metropolitan University and has co-led the inception and development of the newly accredited programmes within the Cardiff Partnership. Sharne began her career as a primary teacher and has worked in ITE for 20 years specialising in language and literacy.

Kelly Wegener is a Senior Lecturer at the University of South Wales. Currently, her main area of research is in the use of simulation technology to enhance students' critical thinking within Initial Teacher Education and she has presented her findings on this area at both the BERA and IPDA conferences.

Clive Williams is the Headteacher of Ysgol Gymraeg Aberystwyth and is currently an associate of the National Academy for Educational Leadership in Wales. He is a part time Challenge Advisor with Erw and a Peer inspector with Estyn. He is a Lead Mentor in the Aberystwyth area partnership.

Gwawr Maelor Williams is the CaBan lead for Welsh language and culture in teacher education. She has contributed extensively to the national strategy for Welsh and bi-lingual education.

Hazel Wordsworth is the Director of Initial Teacher Education at the School of Education and Human Development in Bangor University. Her main research interests are in Early Childhood, Learning and Development particularly child-initiated play, the child's voice and ownership of their own learning.